

Based in the Washington DC Metro area, Stephanie currently leads Booz Allen Hamilton's Global Mobility and Immigration Program under the firm's International Operations and Expansion Organization. She is responsible for the design and delivery of enterprise program solutions for Talent Mobility in the Middle East, Europe and APAC as the firm scales their international footprint and consulting portfolio.

Her previous roles include leading Global Mobility and Immigration for 8 years at Salesforce, where she developed and scaled the program from the ground up during the company's exponential growth to support talent acquisition and development. She has also held roles at Mercer (formerly ORC) in their Expatriate Compensation Practice in New York and San Francisco where she advised a variety of clients in Global Mobility Best Practices for the Financial Services, Oil and Gas, Defense and the High Tech.

Stephanie is a frequent panelist for Bay Area Mobility Management (BAMM) and has been quoted in various Mobility industry publications. She holds a BA in Political Science from Lynchburg College.